

Preparing Your Child for Kindergarten

Front Row Educational Services understands the demands put on the Kindergarten classroom teacher. Kindergarten curriculum is becoming more and more rigorous. The better prepared our students are when they enter Kindergarten, the more they will grow, succeed and be able to meet higher expectations. Kindergarten lays the foundation for continued life-long learning.

The key to any student's success is understanding that learning begins at home. This pamphlet helps prepare parents for their child's first year of school—Kindergarten. It tells parents the expectations of Kindergarten and what they can do to help prepare their child for a successful year. For many parents and students, this resource will benefit and support them before and during Kindergarten.

Preparing Your Child for Kindergarten includes a checklist to assess what their child knows and skills to practice. It is separated into several areas, including social and behavioral, motor skills, speaking, reading and writing, and math. Activity suggestions are offered to help parents make the learning at home fun and exciting.

This pamphlet is a wonderful hand-out. It can be distributed at the end of preschool, at Kindergarten pre-registration, on the first day of school, and even at Back-to-School Night. While we understand that budgets are becoming increasingly small, here are some creative ways that schools have purchased the pamphlets: ASB, PTA or Foundations, rummage sales, or the principal's discretionary budget.

Now available in English, Spanish, Cantonese, Russian, Hmong and Vietnamese.
